UB Evaluation Completed; Officials Await Findings

Evaluators from five accrediting agencies who concluded their three-day inspection of the University recently found "much that was impressive" according to Dr. Mowat C. Fraser, co-ordinator for the state, regional and local accrediting groups.

Dr. Fraser is chief of the bureau of higher adult education of the Connecticut State Department of Education.

Actual results of the re-evaluation and inspection, however, will not be known for several weeks, Dr. Fraser reported. Each of the committees representing the various accrediting groups must report its findings to their respective parent groups. The parent groups must report its findings to their respective parent groups. The parent groups in turn hand down their conclusions and recommendations.

Re-evaluation and inspection of all colleges and universities is a regular practice, Dr. Fraser stated. Commendations when deserved are noted and where necessary recommendations for strengthening of existing programs or academic practices are suggested.

Accrediting agencies visiting the University included the Connecticut State Department of Education and the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, re-evaluating the University as a whole.

The National League for Nursing inspected the program in public health nursing now in the process of development at the College of Nursing. Accreditation of the four-year program in basic nursing and the general nursing program for registered nurses was received from the League last year.

The Pones School of Dental Hygiene was inspected by the Connecticut State Dental Association and the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education inspected the University's College of Education.

A proposed program leading to the master of science degree in business administration by the College of Business Administration was inspected by the State Department of Education.

The American Association of University Women inspected the University as a whole for acceptance into its membership.

Twenty-five educators representing the various accrediting agencies took part in the re-evaluation and inspection. Activities included examination of University academic programs records, administrative operations, discussions with trustees, deans faculty members and students and observations of students in the classroom.

Cooperative re-evaluation and inspection of a complex institution by the various accrediting agencies was undertaken for the first time in New England. The pattern established at the University may serve as a model for re-evaluation and inspection of other colleges and universities, according to Pres. James H. Halsey.

Communale Sets Record In Pitt Meet

Joe Communale brought more glory to the University this week when he set a new record at the National Collegiate weightlifting championship at the University of Pittsburgh. Communale pressed 275 pounds to break the previous record he set last year by five pounds. The senior was lifting in the 165 pound class.

Due to his efforts the University came in fifth among the 22 schools entered. Joe received $102 for the trip which lasted from April 16-20. He received $40 from the Student Council, $25 from the Athletic Department, $5 from KBR fraternity and $32 from the student body.

Communale was 1958 National weightlifting champion and three times winner of the Eastern Collegiate Weightlifting championship. The defending champ had qualified by winning the Eastern Collegiate Championship at City College of New York, March 29 for the third consecutive year. He had set two new collegiate records in the press and total poundage lifted. He was defending the title he won at a meet held at Michigan State University last year.

When Communale entered the NCAA sponsored meet at Michigan State he not only won the middleweight championship, but as the University's only representative, he put the school in fourth place in the country. His total of 780 points was 35 points better than his nearest competitor and he set a new press mark for the NCAA 165 pound title.

It was brought to light that if he places in the AAU contest which he plans to enter in July, he will have the chance to represent the United States at the Pan-American games in August.

Fred Hechinger, associate editor of the Bridgeport Sunday Herald and author of the recent book, "The Big Red Schoolhouse" was given honorary membership into Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary collegiate journalism fraternity at its annual initiation Tuesday night. Also inducted were: Sid Kohn, Judy Resnick, Jerry Main, Dave Mattson, Ron Miller, Dianne Ruscoe, Mal Wolff, Andy Morgo and John Wright.

A CAUSE FOR ACTION

The "coup" in the chamber of the Student Council last Wednesday, which saw "six brothers and a girl friend" defeat a proposed revision to the student constitution that was intended to increase and improve the quality of our "campus leaders," has brought forth some interesting and provocative comments from irate students.

Many of those present at the meeting defined the action of this fraternity, "sneaky, underhanded, and with no regard for the best interest of the student body." Others commented that "the only apparent reason for defeating these revisions was the inability of this fraternity to maintain the qualifications as proposed and that this was a supreme effort on their part to maintain control of the Council, an organization which they have dominated for several years.

They also saw fit to depose acting president Joe O'Brien by returning fraternity brother Andy Mitchell (who was supposed to be unable to complete his term of office, due to student teaching commitments) to preside.

We are concerned that one group, consisting of merely a handful of students has the power to dictate what can be made laws of the student constitution.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER for the commencement exercises to be held at the Gym, June 7 will be Alvin C. Eurich, executive director of the Educational Division for the Ford Foundation.

Ford Foundation Head To Speak at Graduation

Dr. Alvin C. Eurich, Executive director of the Educational Division for the Ford Foundation, will give the commencement speech on June 7 in the Gym.

Appointed Executive Director of the Foundation's Educational Division on May 16, 1958, Dr. Eurich has been Vice President of the Fund for the Advancement of Education since 1951 and director since 1952.

The University received a grant of approximately $335,000 from the Ford Foundation in 1957. It was given with the stipulations that it be used to supplement faculty salaries. Colleges, universities and hospitals throughout the country have received similar grants.

Dr. Eurich's career in education includes teaching, administrative, and research positions. Graduating from North Central College in 1924 with a B.A. degree, he taught at the University of Maine during his post-graduate work. He received his M.A. degree in 1926. He received his doctorate from the University of Minnesota in 1929. Besides receiving the Distinguished Achievement Award, Dr. Eurich has also been cited with eight honorary doctorate degrees from various colleges and universities.

Prior to World II, the Ford Foundation Director was Professor of Education at Northwestern University and later at Stanford University.

Serving from 1942 to 1944 as a commander in the Navy, Dr. Eurich returned to Stanford where he was appointed Acting President. In 1949, he became the first President of the State University of New York and served until 1951. Dr. Eurich was responsible for bringing together 32 state institutions for higher learning into a single university system. Within this system, he set up two medical education centers and a liberal arts college.

As a writer, Dr. Eurich has contributed many articles to educational journals and general periodicals. In addition to this, a wide variety of associated activities has claimed his interest in education throughout his career.

He belongs to the Phi Delta Kappa fraternity and is a member of the Bohemian Club (San Francisco), the Cosmos Club (Washington D.C.) and the Century Club and University Club (New York).

Field Hits Alumni Charge

"There is more there than meets the eye," says Dr. David A. Field about the claim by 400 University alumni that they gained least satisfaction from their physical education and mental health courses while attending here, which revealed in the April 9 issue of the Scribe.

The Alumni believed that undergraduate requirements in health education and physical education should be decreased while those in English, science and the humanities should be increased.

Commenting on these findings from a Self-Study questionnaire mailed to the alumni, Dean Earl M. Bigsbee, Coordinator of the Self-Study committee, declared that "Least satisfaction occurred in the habit of maintaining good physical and mental health and ethical ideas and moral strength to live by them."

"The first question to be asked about these results," Dr. Field maintains, "is whether or not these former students took the equal importance."

physical education classes before the Gymnasium was built."

If a person graduated in 1956, 1957 or 1958 from the four year college, the chances are he didn't take physical education classes in the new building, and if this were the case, then an alumnus might just wonder about the worth of his classes because of the poor facilities available before the Gym was built, Field believes.

Whether or not the complaint is justified, Dr. Field says, will depend upon a thorough examination of the questionnaires to determine how many of the respondents took their physical education classes in the Drama Center or the Music Hall.

Dr. Herbert E. Glines, director of Athletics and a mathematics instructor, looks upon the results of the questionnaire as misleading. "Extremes can be reached in either physical education or science emphasis. I certainly don't believe one will replace the other. Both seem to be of the equal importance."

Disgusted Student 'Blasts' Theta Sigma's Council Veto

To The Editor:

In the April 16th issue the Scribe carried an article entitled "Action Taken by SC to Alter Constitution". This action was in the form of a by-law drawn up by the two advisors to Student Council, namely Profs. De Siero and Stanley, for the purpose of providing that organization with a more representative cross section of the student body.

At the April 22nd session of Student Council this proposed revision was officially brought up and defeated by fourteen members of Council who by pure accident happened to be at the meeting. (In order to enlighten anyone who is unfamiliar with the rules of parliamentary procedure let it be known that a by-law to a constitution needs a two-thirds vote of those present in order to pass.) Simple mathematics reveals that five negative votes would be sufficient to kill any by-law if there were fourteen voting members present.

At this April 22 meeting there were seven negative votes cast which killed any action that this year's Council had hopes of taking. The unusual feature of the vote was the fact that six of the seven negative ballots came from members all of whom represented one fraternity, but of course this was purely coincidental on their part.

The by-law itself was supposedly inadequate to serve any real purpose, but for the sake of clarification let's analyze what it contained.

The first major revision stipulated that anyone desiring to run for Student Council be a full time student in good standing at the University and that he or she have at least a 2.3 combined Q.P.R. instead of the 2.0 that is now in effect. Were this provision to have passed the majority of the so called "campus leaders" would automatically become followers, for it's difficult enough keeping up a 2.0 or a 2.1 let alone strive for an impossible 2.3!

Secondly this by-law provided for the president of Student Council to be any junior or senior, twenty years old or older and having a minimum 2.5 combined Q.P.R. instead of the 2.0 that is now in operation. The six coincidental votes felt that this stipulation was definitely unnecessary since the president is only the liaison between the administration and two thousand students and he really doesn't have to show any exemplary ability.

Third and finally this proposal called for the entire student body to choose the president of Council instead of leaving this up to the elected members of the organization as is now the custom. How could the student body be expected to pick a president when they don't even know what fraternity he represents?

For reasons such as those mentioned above this proposed by-law to the constitution was defeated by six coincidental votes all coming from the same direction.

To the mighty twenty-five man Theta Sigma fraternity, I take off my hat and congratulate you for being able to dictate the destiny of two thousand students. You should be given medals and your pictures should be hung up in Fairfield Hall for all to gaze upon. Yours is truly a remarkable achievement being able to come so far with so little.

Fred Pike, Junior Class President and SC member.

Talk Given by UN Delegate

Ajar K. Mitra, the first secretary and political advisor of the permanent mission of India to the United Nations spoke at the Gym recently on "Nuclear Energy in War and Peace." Mr. Mitra was sponsored by the Nuclear Council of Fairfield County which is an organization that favors the discontinuance of nuclear bomb tests.

Mr. Mitra discussed the international character of the development of nuclear energy, the 'advance' in techniques of nuclear warfare, the present stage of the 'balance of terror', concern of the uncommitted nations in this matter, concern of Asia regarding nuclear weapons testing, "contamination without permission, shortage of power in underdeveloped countries, the question of availability of nuclear power, lack of adequate research due to preoccupation with warlike needs and the possibilities of future development of nuclear energy.

Mr. Mitra joined the Indian foreign service in 1949. He was successively posted at London, Madrid, Buenos Aires, and the International Commission for Control of the Armistice in Indo-China in 1954. He was first secretary and Charge d'Affaires of the Indian embassy at Phnom Penh, Cambodia in 1955-56 and has been in his present position at the UN since that time.

A dinner in Mr. Mitra's honor was held at the Dining Hall preceding the lecture. Guests included: Pres. and Mrs. James H. Halsey, Dr. and Mrs. Henry W. Littlefield, Prof. and Mrs. Ralph Pickett, Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Kerschner, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Besson, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Knopp, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Wilcox, Dr. and Mrs. Munro Coleman, Dr. and Mrs. Spencer Brown, and Dr. and Mrs. Willard P. Berggren.

'UB Choir the Most' Says University Coed

To The Editor:

Last Sunday, April 19, the University Music Department presented its annual Spring Concert. In my opinion, the highlight of this function was the program so ably performed by the A Cappella Choir. I regret to say that this was only the second time this year that I have heard them perform.

It seems to me that the University should afford the A Cappella Choir more opportunities to display its abilities. Everyone enjoys listening to beautiful voices expertly blended.

I have heard that when the choir toured a number of high schools on Long Island during spring vacation, it was warmly received and appreciated. It is a shame that our own A Cappella Choir, of which the student body should be proud and boastful, has to leave home in order to achieve just recognition. I am sure that an increase in the number of "home" performances by the choir would be greatly appreciated by students and faculty alike.

A CAUSE FOR ACTION

This is a dictatorial action which concerns all of us. The Council must be rid of such short sighted, power seeking individuals, whose only desire is to rule, not to administer. Only if every fraternity, sorority, club or organization and students at the University will show their indignation at the voting booth will this reign of reactionary and "do-nothing" politics come to an end.

Elections for the new Student Council will soon be at hand. May 4 has been set as the deadline for all applicants to submit their intentions to the Student Activities Office. As things now stand, the proposed revisions (qualifications) may still be pushed through at the Council's last official meeting (April 29).

What you can do to improve this sickening situation is to either run for office yourself, or make damn sure that at least one member of your fraternity, sorority, etc. runs for and secures one of the Council posts.

Another thing you can do, is be on hand for the Student Council assembly where you will for the first time have the privilege of seeing and hearing the candidates, thereby allowing you the opportunity to see and judge objectively for whom you intend to vote.

And finally, when the day of the ballot rolls around, it is your duty, that is if you're still interested in who's to be making your decisions, to vote for the people who will make the necessary constitutional changes to make the Council everybody's business, not the domain of a few.

Miss Edith Aynes Speaks to Nurses

The rehabilitation of patients with chronic illnesses was the topic of a recent conference arranged by the Development Committee of the College of Nursing.

Miss Edith Aynes, coordinator of information for the National Foundation—formerly the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis—addressed the group at a luncheon.

Speaking of the demand for training in health services, she said the amount of medical knowledge is so great and medical discoveries so rapid, that the medical profession cannot cope with all of the problems.

"Doctors are relying more and more on the associate professions to carry out specific details for which highly technical training is necessary," she asserted. "As a result, the associate professions have had to upgrade their education, and they in turn, shift some of their less technical duties to sub-professional groups and volunteers."

She explained that this necessitates close supervision and teaching on-the-job on the part of professional workers. These in turn, require teaching and supervising abilities. Their skills must be taught in schools in addition to purely technical knowledge.

Russian Club Eats 'Shashlik'

A Russian cossack dance performed with flaming torches highlighted a recent field trip of the University Russian Club in the Balalaika Cape in New York City on April 18.

Mrs. Olga Svetlik, faculty member of the language department, assisted twenty-one students and guests in the selection of food and in understanding the songs and dances during the field trip.

The students and their guests ate such foods as, beef stroganoff, zakushka, shashlik and borsh. The entertainment also consisted of folk dances and Russian Gypsy folk songs.

Attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Karl Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Itner, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Blackman, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Choromanski, David J. Dziadik, Hellen Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Datzenko, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Murphy.

Herter to Continue 'Team Policy'

Secretary of State Herter is off to a good start. The Senate confirmed him with a unanimous vote as top man in the Eisenhower Cabinet.

Kaltenborn

He succeeds a man who set new records in a life devoted to the foreign service of the United States. Secretary Herter has had the good fortune to work directly under Secretary of State John Dulles for the past two years.

The new Secretary of State will not even attempt to emulate his predecessor's constant journeys to all parts of the world. He will rely more on regular and special envoys, on notes and on the long distance telephone.

Our new Secretary of State will probably be a little more realistic and perhaps a little less idealistic than Secretary Dulles. It is hard to imagine his saying what Mr. Dulles said in his letter of resignation: "This nation was founded with a mission to help build a world where liberty and justice would prevail."

Herter would be more likely to say: "to try and build a nation where liberty and justice would prevail."

Secretary of State Herter is not a young man. He is 64. His arthritic condition is bound to be a handicap both physically and psychologically. Fortunately, his fine character, his broad legislative and administrative experience and his close familiarity with our foreign policy as a top member of the Dulles team more than offset his handicap.

On the administrative side, where he will have to deal with personnel at home and abroad he has had more experience than Mr. Dulles. Since he will stick much closer to Washington, he is expected to participate more directly in administrative problems.

Too much has been made of the President's refusal to announce the Herter appointment at the same time he announced the Dulles resignation. He probably had two motives. He may well have felt that the day belonged to Dulles and to him alone. And he may have been waiting for the final confirmation from Johns Hopkins Hospital physicians that a man suffering from crippling arthritis would not be too seriously handicapped in serving as Secretary of State.

Mr. Herter came to his present position by a long, roundabout route. His family background is German although he was born in Paris and has always had an interest in the arts. Soon after his Harvard graduation he shifted from architecture to diplomacy. After passing his foreign service examinations, his first important job was as aide to United States Delegate Joseph Grew, at the Versailles Peace Conference. After varied political experience in Massachusetts, he was happy to return to foreign affairs as Under Secretary of State in 1956. There he has worked with one of the strongest teams that ever served the State Department. As the head of that team, Secretary Herter will carry forward the Dulles-Eisenhower policies.

TEN YEARS AGO

Freshmen Recuperate; Sponsor 'Beanie Hop'

From our files of April 21 and April 28, 1949. (This year only one senior is competing.)

The freshmen have recuperated and are showing that they forgive the upperclassmen by throwing a "beanie hop" to which all are invited. (A practice that should be continued.)

Sigma Phi Alpha fraternity has established an annual $100 Sigma Phi Alpha scholarship to be awarded to a sophomore, junior or senior selected by the fraternity University committee. The recipient must have a "C" average and must be an outstanding athlete in a major sport. This is the first fraternity to do something of this sort. (Scholarships certainly have changed.)

In cooperation with the President's Commission and the resettlement agencies of the three large religious organizations in this area, the National Student Association Campus Commission will commence its activities for the placement of a student at the University. (This will pay off in the end!)

Eleven seniors have expressed their desire to compete for the William and Regina Winter Prize. This prize is awarded to a graduating senior in the College of Business Administration.

There will be an organizational meeting of the Sailing Club May 6, at 2:00 p.m. in the Scribe office classroom.

A total of 271 students were on Deans List for semester ending Feb. 1. (Present total is 326.)

The Crippled Children's Workshop will be the recipients of approximately $200 from the proceeds of the all University Circus Dance held at the Ritz Ballroom. Fraternities, sororities, and dormitories all took an active part. (Now these organizations also conduct charity drives in Alumni Hall for national fund-raising organizations.)

A plan for the formation of a Central charity fund to cover University student contributions to the Bridgeport-Stratford Community Chest, Infantile Paralysis, Crippled Children funds and other drives has been submitted to the Student Council advisory committee for consideration. (A consideration still worth considering.)

"Education Abroad Also Lacking," Says Dr. Littlefield

"All is not rosy in European education," according to vice-pres. Dr. Henry W. Littlefield, citing his belief that the United States should not rush to drastically change the educational system it now has in operation and pattern itself after that of Europe.

Dr. Littlefield spoke at a banquet sponsored by the Council of Deans honoring the University's top 10 students in each of the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes at Marina hall recently. He based his observations on visits to universities in Norway, Sweden, Finland, Denmark, Belgium and Germany.

Professors in the above countries are disappointed in and dissatisfied with the preparation of entering students in the science, mathematics and foreign language areas, Dr. Littlefield observed, noting that this is also a major complaint in this country. He pointed out that entrance to a university in Europe is much more selective where only one student in 10 enters college compared to one in four in the United States.

The number of teachers in Europe is small in proportion to the total number of students, he stated. Lecture sessions are generally much larger than those of the United States. A heavy reliance upon the lecture system in Europe also tends to place the main burden of education upon the student, he said.

The European student usually receives a list of books to read for a course and attends the lecture sessions. There is a shortage of textbooks in Europe, he noted. Voluntary attendance at lectures seems to be the rule in Europe, unlike practices at most colleges and universities in this country. Lecture material in Europe, however, generally goes well beyond textbooks and into new material, Dr. Littlefield observed, listing this as a strong point. Too many American professors stick to their textbooks, alone, he criticized, although conceding that American textbooks were much more up to date and in plentiful supply.

Salaries of faculty members at some of the universities are determined upon the basis of fees paid by students. As a result, many professors carry what we would consider extremely high lecture responsibilities, making it difficult to fulfill other responsibilities such as research.

Faculty-student relationships in Europe are much behind the standard in this country, he noted. Student personnel counseling services are almost totally lacking in Europe but are now a common practice in this country.

Course offerings in Europe are also limited, he observed, citing limited opportunities to study in such comparatively new areas as psychology and sociology. Audio-visual programs are virtually unknown.

An almost complete reliance on examinations allows little flexibility in judging students in Europe, Dr. Littlefield said.

Financial support for education by business and even government is almost non-existent, although beginning to improve.

The pitfalls of copying traits of another culture are many, "Dr. Littlefield said, "We must remember that growth and development of an educational program is a direct response to the needs of a society of a given country in a specific geographical setting with a unique background of traditions and customs."

Program participants also included: Dr. Clarence D. L. Ropp, dean, College of Arts and Science, presiding and Dr. Eaton V.W. Read, dean, College of Business Administration, invocation and benediction.

Careers, Topic of SAM Talk

Frank M. Roddy, Labor Supervisor of the American Brass Company (Ansonia Division), was the guest speaker of the S.A.M. Chapter meeting held last Wednesday, April 22.

Mr. Roddy's talk, "Careers for College Graduates" contained many helpful hints on what the college student should anticipate when being interviewed for positions in industry. He also stressed the importance of a graduate's ability to use the English language advantageously in order to facilitate communication within an organization.

He summed up his talk with this advice: "There is no future or promotional opportunities for the individual who is an '8 to 5'er' (8 a.m. to 5 p.m. employee). A young executive with aspirations to progress within an organization must resign himself to the fact that, in order to become a successful manager, he must be willing to accept responsibilities and "cash in" on opportunities at whatever time they may occur."

The next SAM function will take place Wednesday evening, May 13, when the local chapter will hold its First Annual Dinner. The event will take place at the Fairway Restaurant, East Main Street, where a full course dinner will be served. Guest speaker for the evening will be Mr. John L. Schwab, president of John L. Schwab and Associates, whose talk will be "The 21st Century Manager, A Look Ahead".

All members are requested to get their reservations in by May 6th.

Knights Trounce Hartford Nine, 18-0

This past week, the DiSpirito coached baseball team won one and lost one, now having a season's record of four wins and three losses.

Ralph PaPazian in his first varsity appearance, pitched a great two hitter in defeating the University of Hartford, 18-0. PaPazian went the full nine innings, giving up only two walks and striking out 12 Hartford swingers.

After being held scoreless the first inning, the UB batters countered with two hits which produced four runs in the second inning. Everett Hart was hit by a pitched ball to start the inning. Bob Darula then singled to left, Rich DiMuro was safe on an error which accounted for one run, and Bob Laemel then cleared the bases with a home run.

The Knights added a single tally in the third, three in the fourth, and five big runs in the fifth to put the game on ice. In the fourth, with two outs and no one on, three successive doubles by, DiMuro, Laemel, and John Giampaolo, and a single by Rick Follman produced the tallies. In the fifth, it was Darula's two run triple, Laemel's third hit, and Giampaolo's second to tally the five runs.

With the score 13-0, in the sixth, DiSpirito replaced the starting nine with a few substitutes. They scored five runs the last three innings. The late inning attack was led by Charlie Milot and Don "Moon" Renton, who each had two hits in two times at the plate.

The Knights lost their initial contest in the Inter-Collegiate Baseball League last Saturday when they were defeated 8-4, by Seton Hall University. The Purple nine handed Seton Hall five runs in the first inning. Bob by Budd started on the hill for the Knights and gave up three walks, two hits, coupled with three errors in the first inning, produced five runs.

The Seaside Knights fought back and going into the seventh were trailing by only one run, 5-4. In the fourth, DiMuro singled and scored as Giampaolo tripled to deep right center, Aslan, who was safe on an error which scored Giampaolo, scored as Granger hit to deep left field.

In the sixth, Granger was safe on a fielder's choice. He stole second and scored on Hart's single to left. Seton Hall came back with three big tallies in the seventh which was the ball game.

DIAMOND DUST: The Knights were scheduled to play three games this past week. Tuesday playing host to Upsala, Wednesday traveling to New York to play Iona College and today to play Danbury State Teachers in the Hat City. Tony Granger is the only Knight who has hit safely in all the UB games. Aslan's streak was stopped by Seton Hall. Captain Aslan got sick before the Hartford game, thus giving Bob Darula an opportunity to play on his birthday. It appeared to be a birthday present from Aslan to Darula. Bob had two hits in the game, one a booming triple, so I guess Aslan better not be too generous in the future. Laemel's home run was the first of the season for any UB-ite. He had five runs batted in against Hartford, thus tying him with Aslan for the club's leadership in that department. Giampaolo continues to lead the batters with 14 hits in 30 trips to the plate.

Dixon and Scott Track Co-Caps

George Dixon and Don Scott have been named co-captains of this year's varsity track and field team. Dixon and Scott are both seniors in the Arnold College of Physical Education. They have both played along side each other as half-backs on the football team for four years. It is a fitting tribute for both gentlemen to be elected co-captains.

Dixon's specialties are the 100 yard dash, the high jump, and the broad jump, in which he holds numerous records. "Scotty", whose specialty is the discus, also runs in many events and holds several records.

The team record stands at an even 1-1 record. The Purple Knights opened the season with a loss to Adelphi College, but bounced back and trounced Hunter College on April 22. Many records were broken at these meets with George Dixon, Dick Whitcomb, Don Scott, Jim Kuhlman, and Jim McGary leading the UB Knights. Coach Walter "Kay" Kondratovich has been pleased by the team's performance so far and feels certain that they will compile a very fine record this year.

Along Park Place

with RON MILLER

HOORAY for tradition! This past weekend saw another event which was FOR students, (which by the way, YOU paid for at registration). The weekend which was set at the ridiculously staggering price of $1.00 per person for the weekend or any event thereof, became "emulsified" and got sucked right down the social drainpipe to the stagnate pool known as the FLOP. The ALUMNI HALL BOARD OF DIRECTORS sponsored the event which lined up to be, (for the benefit of the somnambulists who drifted in and out of Alumni Hall last week); Friday night was the scene of a movie, Saturday's stage was set for the arrival of Jean Shepherd the humorist to be followed by a Latin-American dance band, and finally Sunday's activities, which boasted of a jazz concert followed by a roast beef dinner. Let the curtain fall on a well planned weekend for YOU to enjoy. What's traditional about THIS, you ask? Well, interest is one thing, participation is another, and the potential to cry about "nothing to do on Campus" is still another. Three traditional UBite characteristics.

This was the time when everyone could have found that Alumni Hall was also used for social events that a student may take advantage of on a weekend and not just a place to sit at a table and comment that "Alumni Hall is too small . . . not enough room for activities."

What happened to the paupers that didn't need this Weekend on a Dollar to help the old pocketbook? What happened to the "nothing to do at Alumni Hall" crying team?

Read this and weep: Saturday's comment from Jean Shepherd when he saw the "crowd" that had assembled to see him entertain was, "Looks like I'm late, everyone seems to have gone home." The Gym was filled to the overflow capacity of 60 people. The scene at the dance which followed Shepherd, which the price for the band stood at $200.00 for the night, was amazing; there were eight people in attendance who were: four chaperones, three students, and a cop. Sunday was even better when the Jazz combo thought that they were either in the wrong school, the wrong building, or that they got the weekend dates mixed up; (there were twenty people at this event.) The dinner after the concert was great it must have been, for the word spread that FOOD was being served; the crowd jumped in number from twenty to fifty.

Religious holidays, weddings, fraternity weekends, etc; were valid reasons for not attending the weekend, but the reason that the point at which the student would dissolve if out in the rain, (most of this comes from the fact that the walk from the dorms to Alumni was too much), would not stand up too well. Well, Alumni Hall Board of Directors, back to the drawing board; it's evident that the students need something else to do on campus.

The brothers of Sigma Lambda Chi congratulate Ed Wolfe and Ellen Grossman who became engaged this past weekend. Bill Serlin lost his SLX pin to Marlene Shatton at the SLX weekend.

Marilyn Chapman, Beta Gamma, became the pin-pal of John Majesko. Anita Korshak, also Beta Gamma, received the IDP pin of Roger Soderholm.

"The Pajama Game" is to be presented by the sisters of Phi Delta Rho this Friday night at Glorietta Manor. The game will start at 9:00 and will end at 1:00 a.m. Who will be selected as Phi Delta Rho's boudoir Boy? By the way, pajamas are not uniform of the evening at this dance.

Vinny Falcone wed Miss June Munnely of Stamford last weekend. The newly-weds are both teachers in local school systems. Mr. and Mrs. Falcone will take up residence in this city while Vin pursues his masters degree.
